

WOMEN'S empowerment initiative

Luncheon tea with
ALLYSON SONENSHINE, J.D.

Project Director, Orange County Women's Health Project
Co-Director, Center for the Advancement of Women's Health
UC Irvine Program in Nursing Science

January 10, 2014

Newkirk Alumni Center, Room B • 12 – 1:30 p.m.

Free with RSVP

The ACA: What's In It for Women?

Despite all the noise about the Affordable Care Act, surprisingly little attention has been paid to the enormous improvements for women's health afforded by the ACA.

Come learn how the ACA is expanding coverage, increasing affordability, focusing on preventive care, and eradicating discriminatory practices to the substantial benefit of women.

Time permitting we'll also discuss some of the latest legal, legislative and administrative developments affecting ACA implementation.

Allyson Sonenshine, J.D., has nearly 20 years of nonprofit, legal and volunteer experience in women's health and reproductive justice.

She is the founding project director for the Orange County Women's Health Project, a nonprofit that identifies gaps and facilitates improvements in local women's health through data analysis, policy development, education and advocacy that brings together local women's stakeholders at the annual Orange County Women's Health Policy Summit.

She is a recipient of the Breaking the Glass Ceiling Award from the National Women's Political Caucus – Orange County, and was recognized as a "2013 Woman to Watch" in OC Metro magazine.